Bloodshed Arising from the Owens-Breckinridge Campaign.

A MURDER NARROWLY AVERTED.

Desha Breckinridge, Son of the Defeated Congressman, Attacks James D. Livingston with a Knife—Judge Kinkead Insulted by a Breckinridge Partisan.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 22. — Desha Breckinridge had a sensational altercation with James Duane Livingston, formerly of New York city, in the Phoenix hotel last evening. Livingston was standing at the news and cigar stand reading an afternoon paper when Desha Breckinridge came in and bought a package of cigarettes. Livingston spoke to Desha and extended his hand, saying: "It is all over now, and we ought to be friends. Shake hands."

Breckinridge, with an angry look on his face, replied: "No; you one-horse scoundrel, I will not take your hand. You profess to be a man's friend and then stab him in the back."

Livingston replied to this by saying that he had done nothing of the kind. Then Breckinridge called him a liar. Livingston then struck at Desha and knocked his glasses off, following this up with a blow on the neck. Desha reached for his hip pocket, and instantly there flashed in the air the long bright blade of a big dirk. Livingston, in a moment of desperation, grabbed at the glittering blade, which Breckinridge had aimed at his heart. The knife went between the second and third fingers of Livingston's right hand, cutting the third finger to the bone. The cold steel sent a shudder through Livingston's frame, and he grasped his right hand with his left in order to stop the terrible flow of blood that was dyeing the floor of the lobby. Then Breckinridge seemed to desire no more blood, and gave Livingston two strong kicks.

The hotel clerk and several bystanders rushed in and seized Breckinridge, and at the same instant Matt Lane, a strong Breckinridge man, ran up and said he would take a hand in helping Desha. Two witnesses say that Lane also flourished a big knife, but Lane denies this. A friend then took Livingston home in a buggy, and Desha Breckinridge went to his rooms across the street.

Just before the trouble occurred with Livingston, Desha and Lane, who were walking up Main street in front of Breckinridge headquarters, met Judge George B. Kinkead, who made several speeches during the campaign denouncing Colonel Breckinridge in the most scathing terms. Desha Breckinridge said to Judge Kinkead that the election was over and he wanted to tell him that he was a —— liar. He also applied several other vile epithets to the judge, who replied that he was unarmed, and did not want to have any difficulty in the open street. Desha told him to go and arm himself and he would meet him anywhere or at any time. He repeated this several times.

Then Lane, who is a comparative stranger in Lexington, having recently come here from Mount Sterling, said, addressing the judge: "So this is Judge Kinkead, is it? When you said that dinner people would not entertain Colonel Breckinridge, you lied. My sister entertained him in Woodford county, and I say to you that you are a —— —— —— ——."

Judge Kinkead again said that he wanted no trouble on the street and that he was not armed, when Lane threw his coat and said he was not armed either, and then repeated the language that he had previously used to the judge. Kinkead then walked on out the street toward his home.

When seen by your correspondent Lane said: "Yes, I called him a —— —— —— ——, and I will fight him any way he wants to fight, and, what is more, if any of his friends want to take it up I will fight them, too."

By this time a number of strong Owens men, at least one of whom has already killed his man, began to crowd into the lobby of the hotel. One of Colonel Breckinridge's friends, fearing that there would be trouble with Lane, got J. Breckinridge Valley, a strong Breckinridge supporter, to go in and persuade Lane to leave the hotel.

Then the Owens men began to talk and one of them, who has the reputation of not knowing what fear is, said: "If Desha Breckinridge and his friends intend to exterminate all the men who worked for Owens, as they seem to want to do, they will have to enlarge the cemetery. This sort of thing won't do, no matter how sore they are. They may just as well take their medicine."

J. Duane Livingston is a man of about 30 years, and is the financial agent of J. Kennedy Tod, owner of the Kentucky Union railroad. He was a strong Owens man, and worked night and day for the victorious candidate. When seen by your correspondent while his wound was being dressed he said: "I took Desha's abuse and made no attempt to resent it until he called me a liar. Then I had to hit him. I think I saved myself from a fatal stab by grabbing his knife."

Judge Kinkead is a great grandson of Isaac Shelby, the first governor of Kentucky, and is the first cousin of John T. Shelby, Breckinridge's law partner, who slapped Attorney Johnson in the face during the famous Pollard trial. Judge Kinkead is about 42 years old. He has always been considered a man of the highest physical courage, and everybody expects that more blood will be shed before this trouble is over.

He Attacks His Brother with an Ax, Fatally Wounding Him.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 22.—Mike and Joe Plebon, Hungarian miners, became engaged in a quarrel at their boarding house in Nanticoke. Mike, who is bigger and stronger, was getting the better of Joe, when the latter rushed into the woodshed, got an ax, and swung it at his brother, nearly severing the right arm above the elbow. The big fellow dropped, wreathing with pain, and begged his brother to hit him on the head and put him out of his agony. Joe again swung the ax, this time smashing his brother's skull. A third blow cut deep into the thigh. Mike is in the hospital in this city, but cannot live. Joe has been arrested. Both had been drinking the deadly "polinki" before the fight.

Just east of Bowmansville the east bound train met a mixed freight. One of the middle cars in the west bound train was off the rails bumping along. On a curve where the trains met the car was thrown with great violence against the cab, in which sat the engineer, brakeman and fireman. The engineer was not badly hurt.

Dr. Anton Palitsch-k Disgraced.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Private cable messages received here from Vienna announce that Dr. Anton Palitschek, late consul general to the United States, located at New York, has been dismissed in disgrace from the consular service of the Austro-Hungarian empire. While acting as imperial and royal commissioner general to the World's fair the ex-consul is said to have compelled Austrian exhibitors to pay for their space in manufacturers' hall. He is also charged with embezzlement.

Brigandage in New York City.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—A gang of west side Loodlums held up an Eighth avenue street car yesterday morning near Abingdon square in approved western style. Some attacked the conductor, while others went through the passengers. A man lost a gold watch and a woman a pocketbook containing $30. The police arrived in time to drive the gang off with clubs before there were further depredations. The officers captured only a young negro named Brown.

World's Cycling Records Broken

WALTHAM, Mass., Sept. 22. — Three world's bicycle records were lowered at the Waltham track by some of the crack riders gathered here for private record making. John S. Johnson broke the world's record for the half mile, making it in 54 and seconds. The world's quarter mile tandem was also broken—time, 26 4-5 seconds. Harvey Davidson, of Toronto, created another world's record for class A making a quarter a pace in 28 2-5 seconds.

A Female Horse Thief Sentenced.

CARTHAGE, Mo., Sept. 22.—In the circuit court, Lizzie Christie, a young woman, pleaded guilty to stealing a horse, buggy, and harness at Webb City last summer and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. They say the two left Webb City in the stolen rig, but at Sedalia the man deserted her.

The Long Congressional Deadlock.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Republican congressional conferees took fifty ballots yesterday without result. They then adjourned to meet next Tuesday in this city. THE GORIN TRAIN ROBBERY

How the Railroad Company Learned of the Conspiracy.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 22.—J. J. Kinney, chief the secret service of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad company, returned from Scotland county, Mo., where he had been operating with the local authorities in the Gorin train robbery case.

Kinney says Overfield and Abrams are the only persons wanted for the hold up. There are two others in the conspiracy, but one gave it up because he became suspicious of McDaniels, the informant, and the other a simple minded and harmless sort of a fellow, who was pursuaded by McDaniels to abandon the enterprise.

Kinney denies that McDaniels originated the bold plot. He says Abrams and Overfield approached McDaniels, who at once sought the advice of A. J. Daggs, a lawyer of Memphis. Daggs advised McDaniels to inform the railroad and express authorities, and the two went to Chicago and told the story. Then General Manager Frey was informed, and the case was placed in Kinney's hands.

After the plans of the conspirators had been formed they elected McDaniels leader. McDaniels notified Kinney of this and Kinney instructed McDaniels that he must not be the leader; that it was not the desire of the railroad or express company to lead men into the commission of crime, and he must put one of the others forward. Accordingly McDaniels declined to act as leader, and Abrams was chosen.

Kinney says McDaniels was not promised $5,000 or any other sum for exposing the conspiracy. He will receive only expenses actually incurred. McDaniels has been a saloon keeper, deputy sheriff and school teacher.

The Company Not Responsible.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 22.—The case of John Roach vs. Eclipse Lubricating company, which has been on trial here for two days, came to an abrupt termination yesterday afternoon, Judge Taylor granting a compulsory non-suit on the ground that no case had been made out. The suit resulted from the great flood and fire catastrophe in Oil City on June 5, 1892, in which over fifty lives were lost. The plaintiff in the case lost his entirely family, and based a suit for damages on the supposed negligence of the defendant company in leaving a benzine tank not sufficiently protected there, causing it to be undermined by the flood and the benzine to spread on the waters, which, when it exploded, killed his family.

Two Murderers Hanged.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 22.—John and Jasper Atkins, white, were hanged at Waynesboro, S. C., yesterday for the murder of William Clamp, also white, on Feb. 19, 1893. They died without a tremor, but neither denied or admitted their guilt. The murder was an atrocious one. They killed Clamp in order that John might live with Clamp's wife and Jasper with his daughter and between them divide up what little property the dead man had.

Murdered by Negro Burglars.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 22.—P. C. Patton, a prominent merchant of McGhee, Ark., was murdered and his store looted by robbers Thursday night. The bandits are a gang of lawless negroes who have been a terror to the white and colored citizens of that section for some time. They were captured at Pine Bluff yesterday afternoon and taken back to McGhee. Excitement is running high, and lynching is expected.

The Pope and the Italian Government

ROME, Sept 22.—The Austrian and Prussian ambassadors at the Vatican are trying to induce the papal authorities to agree to a modus vivendi with the quirinal. Emperor Francis Joseph is reported to have written several letters to the pope with this end in view. Emperor William is said to be equally anxious to bring about an understanding between the Vatican and the Italian government.

Killed by Moonshiners.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Sept. 22. — James Darcy, a general merchandise dealer of White Top Mountain, was assassinated last night by unknown persons, who called him to his door late at night and riddled him with bullets. It is stated that Darcy was killed by moonshiners whose distilleries had been raided by revenue officers on his information.

COOK'S ARCTIC TOUR.

Serious Charges by Ex-Mayor Gardner, of Cleveland.

GROSS MISMANAGEMENT ALLEGED.

Mr. Gardner Declares That Proper Provision for the Safety and Comfort of the Tourists Was Neglected in the Interest of a Money Making Scheme.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—Ex-Mayor George W. Gardner, of this city, who was a member of the Cook Greenland excursion party returned yesterday. He says the affair was misrepresented and mismanaged in every particular by Dr. Cook. The Miranda had only arrived in New York harbor with a load of coffee from South America three days before she sailed for Greenland, and was entirely unfit and unprepared to make the trip. The captain protested vigorously against taking the vessel north, but all to no purpose.

Mr. Gardner charged Dr. Cook with sending out alluring circulars when getting up the party, which proved to be most deceiving, and that the excursion was simply run for pecuniary benefit to the promoter.

The ex-mayor alleges that, while the excursion started out with the intention of remaining north two months, enough provisions were only taken to last two-thirds of that time, and the party was soon put on short rations, or two meals a day.

Twice, said Mr. Gardner, we bought provisions for ourselves, and, as every one knows, our trip was to include everything. Once Dr. Cook brought around an itemized account of his expenses in a vain attempt to secure additional compensation for the trip.

Before the transfer of the passengers from the Miranda to the Rigel Dr. Cook sold each man that absolutely nothing but what was necessary in the way of clothing would be allowed on the schooner in the face of this order Cook, the night before, secretly had conveyed to the Rigel his own property, including a stock of liquor and cigars, which he sold to the passengers on the trip at ridiculously high prices. Everything that Cook had was saved, while not one of the passengers or crew saved anything of value.

"Cook's sole idea from beginning to end," said Mr. Gardner, "was profit. When we reached a port he insisted on being the first man off the boat, so that he could buy everything of value from the natives. He bartered and boggled and made money, and that is all that he did do.

"I don't believe that Professor Wright ever said that the crew of the Miranda was drunk most of the time. I never honored or respected a man more than I do Captain Farrell, and his men were, most of them, perfect in their behavior. The day we struck on the reef there was a little drinking among the firemen, who somehow had managed to get hold of some whisky. As to the crew itself, there was no drinking, and Professor Wright could not have meant that there was, for he could not have known it if there had been. He was sick most of the time."

The entire story as related by Mr. Gardner shows Dr. Cook to the light of being a merchant out for as large a profit as possible. In his greed for money he risked lives, health and most valuable property, and it was nothing but good luck that saved the party from great property loss.

Altoona's Suspended Bank to Reopen.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 22.—The final meeting of the shareholders of the Second National bank prior to resuming business was held yesterday afternoon. The voluntary assessment of $50,000 required by the government was paid in full, and 75 per cent. of the compulsory assessment to replace the capital stock of $100,000 was reported paid. Four new directors were added to the board, W. L. Woodcock, G. Davis, T. B. Patton and B. Berkowitz. Frank Hastings, of Wellsboro, Tioga county, was elected cashier. The comptroller of the currency is expected to send on authority to resume business, and the bank will probably reopen on Monday.

Facts Worth Knowing

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuff, powders or astringents, because they are irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who had for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm. Your druggist has it.

The "patent lambskin-with-wool-on swob," that comes free with Vacuum leather oil, does the business. It isn't a tenth of the nuisance it used to be to take care of harness and shoes.

THE YALU NAVAL ENGAGEMENT.

Latest Reports Indicate the Loss of Four Japanese Vessels.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—A dispatch from Shanghai says: There was a most serious loss of Chinese officers in the battle of the Yalu. In addition to those who perished on the Chin Yuen, the captains of four men-of-war, which have reached Port Arthur, are reported to have been killed while fighting their ships.

Admiral Ting directed the operations of the Chinese fleet with great coolness. He was twice wounded, the first time on the cheek by a fragment of shell, and then in the leg. His wounds were dressed on deck.

Five Chinese transports reported missing are safe. It has been persistently rumored that three other transports were either sunk or captured by the Japanese, but this is mere hearsay.

The officers of the Chinese northern squadron, now at Port Arthur, still insist that at least three Japanese warships were sunk in the battle. They also assert that it was not the Japanese cruiser Yoshino, but a smaller vessel, the Hi Yei, which was damaged and rendered hors du combat. It is now generally admitted that not a single Chinese battleship escaped without great damage.

The Japanese losses are uncertain. Nobody was able to see the whole action, but from a comparison of the testimony it seems certain that four Japanese ships were destroyed and the remainder of the fleet badly maimed.

A Tokio dispatch says that all the messages over the Japanese field telegraphs to Fusan, except official dispatches, have again been stopped. This indicates that important movements are developing.

The emperor of Japan has telegraphed his congratulations to the admiral and officers and men of the fleet for the victory they have won, and also to the field marshal and General Nodzu for the Ping-Yang victory.

His Antipathy to Low Church Doctrine.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—By the will of Isaac Clarence Marsh, the late son of C. V. Marsh, a wealthy Chicago broker, the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension is given the entire income of the estate, amounting to $150,000. His sister, Carrie Marsh, is named as a life beneficiary, and upon her death the church is to receive the income as long as it remains what is known a "high church." The will forbids that any of the money shall be used for the promulgation of low church doctrine, "for," declares the testator, "if any of the money should be used in the teaching of what I have considered rank heresy while living, I should return in vengeance from my grave."

Deliberate Wife Murder in New York

NEW YORK, Sept 22.—Murder was done early in the morning in a house adjoining police headquarters in Mott street. Pietro Romano, an Italian employe of the street cleaning department, shot and killed his young wife Annie under circumstances that would make the motive appear to be jealousy, but none of the neighbors declare the act was long premeditated, and that the incident which gave point to the idea of jealousy was purposely brought about by the deliberate arrangements of the murderer in order to enable him to marry another woman. The murderer has not yet been captured.

Cotton Reaches Its Lowest Point

NEW YORK, Sept 22.—A new low price record was made for cotton yesterday, when October contracts sold at 5.87 and further sold off to 5.85. The lowest previous record was in 1894, when March contracts sold at 6.15. In ante bellum days still lower prices were consistently current under slave labor but never before in the history of the Cotton Exchange has the price of the staple touched the low figure now current.

The funeral will be held at Plainfield, N. J., this afternoon.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

The Commercial Agencies' Review of the Business Situation.

A TENTH LARGER THAN LAST YEAR

Business, However, Falls About Twenty-five Per Cent. Below a Full Volume for the Season—Surprisingly Good Reports from the South and West.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Plenty of material for encouragement, and also for discouragement, can be found by those who seek that and nothing else. But business men who want to see the situation exactly as it is find accounts so far conflicting that it is difficult to strike a balance. In the aggregate business is about a tenth larger than last year, but still falls about 25 per cent. below a full volume for the season.

The iron business, after its great increase of output last month, shows disappointing weakness at all eastern and central markets, with consumption not large enough to keep fairly employed the mills in operation. In textile fabrics there has been a distinct decrease in trade, as initial stocks for the next season have been ordered, and dealers are now waiting for the retail trade to give encouragement for further purchases.

The strikes at Fall River and New Bedford have not ceased, and about a dozen cotton mills have gone into operation elsewhere, several with reduced wages, but the orders for the present are narrow and much smaller than usual, although recent advances in price are maintained. The demand for woolen dress goods is better and will occupy some mills until December.

Breadstuffs are weaker, possibly because the government official report went so far in predicting short crops as to cause a reaction in opinion.

Failures in two weeks of September show liabilities of only $2,867,764, of which $969,716 were of manufacturing, and $1,796,048 of trading concerns. Failures during the week have been 212 in the United States, against 221 for the same week last year, and in Canada 48, against 49 last year.

Bradstreets' review says: The condition of general trade this week is an improvement over one week ago, in that favorable features reported then have been maintained. The surprisingly good reports of business south, and, with some exceptions, west, are indicated by our special advices from Baltimore, Nashville, Chicago, St. Louis, Portland, Ore., and San Francisco. Baltimore jobbers in all leading lines report the volume of merchandise distributed in excess of expectation, especially dry goods in South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, except in fruit and coal regions. Other southern products being in good supply, orders continue liberal and mercantile collections easy.

Nashville, while reporting no improvement over favorable features made last week, notes their continuance, and that collections are prompt. Activity reported in almost all lines at Chicago a week ago is continued, merchants being satisfied with the volume. Greatest activity is shown in dry goods, clothing, millinery and shoes. Wool, too, is active, one lot of 7,000 pounds having been sold to a Rhode Island manufacturer. St. Louis manufacturers and jobbers of clothing and hats report business heavier than in their preceding experience in like periods.

Gains in volume of business at leading eastern cities in the preceding fortnight are generally maintained. Neither Buffalo nor Pittsburg announce gains or reactions, except in prices for metals. Philadelphia textile manufacturers are only fairly busy, relatively active trade in other lines being in dry goods and notions.

Charleston telegraphs that general trade is fair, without new features; Chattanooga, that there has been some slight improvement in business; Memphis, that business is quite active, especially in dry goods and groceries; Atlanta, that collections are freer and trade improving; Savannah, that the volume of business continues to improve. Dry goods jobbers at Augusta have been doing a larger business than for some time previous.

TALES OF THE SEA.

WEIRD YARNS OF THE SUPERNATURAL SPUN BY THE CAPTAIN.

The Skull In the Chain Locker—The Unlucky Bark In the Demerara Trade That Was Said to Be Haunted—The Story of an Exile From Salvador.

We were eating dinner one night on the old cargo ship and talking of the happenings at sea and on shore that are called supernatural when the captain said:

"One sees some things at sea not supernatural which are fit to make a nervous man see ghosts. There was that case in one of Green's liners to the colonies, where a man was sent down to clean out the chain locker. The locker had seemed foul all the passage home, and so they hoisted out the chain and sent this fellow down with his brush and soap and bucket, with a lamp, to clean it out. I'll wager he saw ghosts for a year after that, for when he'd got down on his knees to begin scrubbing he found himself bending over the skull of a dead man.

"It was most likely a man that had stowed away out in the colony and had been caught under the cable when they were running it down quickly, and so had the life crushed out of him.

"However, I did know of a case that seemed supernatural right enough. It was in the Demerara trade, and I was acquainted with the first officer of the bark where it all happened.

"In the first place, while she was out there loaded and ready to sail, the captain had trouble with one of the seamen, who drew out his knife and stabbed him to death then and there. The mate afterward took her home, but on the way a passenger took to ailing in some mysterious fashion and up and died very suddenly.

"Of course she was a haunted ship when she arrived home, and so the owners had her name changed, and she was refitted and painted up entirely different from what she had been. Then she sailed away with a new captain, but on the way out he took to drink, and by the time she reached Demerara he was off his head and killed himself with a revolver.

"Now she was haunted, sure enough, if you could believe the mate. Mind you, after she was refitted the mate said never a word to the new captain about what had happened in her before, and even when a new captain came out from home to take charge of her, believing that the last captain was naturally a drunkard, instead of one who had taken to it after coming on this ship, this first officer never said a word, because he did not believe in ghosts or even in a future state.

"However, the first night the new captain was on board the trouble began. The captain at about 9 o'clock went to his room and retired. An hour later he was calling the mate and telling that he had gone to sleep and then had been awakened by a light in the room. On opening his eyes he saw a short, thickset man, with side whiskers, in the armchair at the desk, leaning over, with his elbows on the desk, holding his head between his hands and saying: 'Oh, my poor head! Oh, my poor head!'

"That was enough for the mate. He left the vessel that night with all hands. This new captain knew nothing of the style or manner of the one who had killed himself, and yet the picture—ghost or what you may call it—in the chair was the image in appearance and dress of the suicide and had complained in precisely the words and voice of the dead man."

This brought out the story of an exile from Salvador whom the narrator met in Guatemala. Having got into trouble with the authorities, Senor Don Sebastian Mojarieta saved his life by fleeing to Amapala, Honduras, as many another exile has done, and there taking a steamer north to San Jose, Guatemala.

A friend of his who was involved in like manner was to have reached Amapala by a different route in time for the same steamer, and to prevent any possible delays Mojarieta engaged staterooms and secured passes from the Amapala authorities for his friend and himself as soon as he arrived. But the steamer day came without his friend, and Mojarieta was obliged to sail alone.

"At the usual hour, on the first night out," the story teller went on, "Mojarieta retired and went to sleep, but had no sooner dozed off than he awoke, hearing his friend's voice, as he says, in the next stateroom, which he had supposed to be empty. Leaving his berth, he went out into the passageway and opened the door to the adjoining room, and there, he says, he saw lying in the berth the body of his friend fully dressed, but with three bullet holes in the breast of his coat and one in the right cheek.

"At that Mojarieta fainted and was found on the deck by the steward and put to bed again. Thereafter it was a most miserable passage, for the vessel touched at both of the Salvador ports and was about a week reaching San Jose. Mojarieta was sure his friend had been shot and expected a force to come off from each of the Salvador ports to demand him. Moreover, he was haunted continually by that picture of his dead friend.

"Once in Guatemala he obtained employment quickly and then began to recover something of his former spirits. He ascribed his vision to his overwrought imagination and was beginning to hope that his friend would yet appear when a letter was received from a relative in Salvador. It not only told that the friend had been shot by the government soldiers, but described the wounds of the body after it was dead. Mojarieta declares that the description accurately portrayed the vision he had of his friend, and he believes that his friend's spirit, being unable to rest or wholly throw off its desire to take passage on the steamer, had come on board and was occupying that berth."—New York Sun.

"America's Greatest Men and Women."

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the preseat time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

SECRET OF THE ARK.

IT WAS REALLY CONSTRUCTED JUST LIKE A LEYDEN JAR.

The Fire That Came Out of It Was Electrical—Aaron's Sons Were Electrocuted. Edison and Tesla, Had They Lived at That Time, Could Not Have Surpassed Aaron.

There is nothing new on the face of the earth, and there is no doubt that electricity was well known to the Israelites and probably to the Phœnicians. The first record of electrical phenomena is as old as the Ten Commandments. Moses, when he received the stone tables on which the Ten Commandments were written the second time, built a box out of fir—not the common cedar or any other native woods, but firwood, which had to be imported by Phœnician merchants from the southern part of Europe. Was this choice accidental on account of the great value of the resinous wood, or was it the choice of the best known nonconductor among the great number of various timbers?

Moses had the fir box lined inside and outside with beaten gold, which converted the ark of the covenant into a very expensive but very perfect leyden jar or storage battery for electricity. As gold is by 50 per cent a better conductor of electricity than copper, was the choice of gold again on account of its value, or was it an inspiration or revelation? So much is certain—that if Edison or Tesla had lived in those days they could not have improved on the choice of material, and the result was a powerful leyden jar.

How was this leyden jar charged, was the next problem. A fire of material rich in carbon was kept burning on top of the ark of the covenant, and during daytime a tall column of smoke guided the 12 tribes of Israel through their wanderings, and at night a tall flame was equally well seen by them. Now carbon is a good conductor of electricity, and the particles of carbon floating in the smoke would conduct sufficient electricity to highly charge the leyden jar. At least the current of electricty would be amply strong, so that if a hand were held toward the ark of the covenant sparks would result. That this was done by Moses at different times is a matter of record, and that he could always depend that his faithful Levites would obey his instructions to the letter and have the jar always charged.

After Moses' death his brother Aaron took the matter in hand and greatly improved the electrical power of the strange battery. He had the ark of the covenant placed in the temple and had it surrounded by poles 50 ells high, or 150 feet. These poles were covered with beaten gold, and gold chains were hung from poles to the ark of the covenant, which made a very expensive but very complete and powerful electrical connection. In a country where electrical storms are as frequent and as powerful as in Palestine at an elevation of 600 feet and a reach of 150 feet of the best conductor an abundant supply of Franklin's electricity would necessarily always be on hand.

It is very likely that Aaron knew nothing of amperes, ohms or volts; otherwise his two sons never would have monkeyed with this powerful apparatus, and they would not have been killed by fire breaking out of the ark of the covenant and killing them without any wounds or burns appearing on their bodies.

Any coroner's jury of today, if it were to sit on an inquest over the body of Aaron's sons, would at once bring a verdict of death by a discharge of electricity.

Aaron knew this power, and to make it effective all he had to do to deal death from his apparatus was to remove the costly camel's hair carpets, which are almost perfect nonconductors of electricity, and make the culprit stand on terra firma. Death would result instantly by fire breaking out and leave no wounds or burns to account for his death. That several members of revolting tribes of Israelites were thus electrocuted is also a matter of record in the Bible.

Solomon in building his temple advanced one step further. He found that copper would do as well as gold. He had the temple covered with copper, and copper water pipes led into the cisterns inside the temple.

On the temple, or rather on its roof, a number of gilt spears were placed in vertical positions, ostensibly to scare off the birds and to keep them from defiling the temple, but these spears were several cords high, or from 16 to 24 feet. Such a height would hardly be necessary for scarecrows, but it was ample to load the roof, water pipes, etc., with a powerful current of electricity.

Franklin, the electric chair in the state of New York and the discovery of the leyden jar itself in Leyden, Germany, are all back numbers. History only repeats itself, whether recorded or not.—C. B. Warrand in Savannah News.

Why the Dial Has Sixty Divisions.

We have 60 divisions on the dials of our clocks and watches because Hipparchus, who lived in the second century before Christ, accepted the Babylonian system of reckoning time, that system being sexagesimal. The Babylonians were acquainted with the decimal, but for common purposes they counted by "sossi" and "sari," the "sosso" representing 60 and the "saros" 60 times 60—3,600. From Hipparchus that mode of reckoning found its way into the works of Ptolemy about the year 150 A. D., and on that authority it has been perpetuated to the present day.—St. Louis Republic.

The "Venus de Medici" was 5 feet 8 inches in height, and this is held by many artists and sculptors to be the most perfect stature for a woman.

Some evils admit of consolations, but there are no comforters for dyspepsia and the toothache.—Bulwer.

A KNIFE

in the hand of a Surgeon gives you a feeling of horror and dread. There is no longer necessity for its use in many diseases formerly regarded as incurable without cutting.

The Triumph of Conservative Surgery is well illustrated by the fact that

RUPTURE or Breach, is now radically cured without the knife and without pain. Clumsy, chafing trusses can be thrown away! They never cure but often induce inflammation, strangulation and death.

TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are now removed without the perils of cutting operations.

PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

STONE in the Bladder, no matter how large, is crushed, pulverized, washed out and perfectly removed without cutting.

STRICTURE of Urinary Passage is also removed without cutting in hundreds of cases. For pamphlet, references and all particulars, send 10 cents (in stamps) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

DOING A GREAT WORK.

Paine's Celery Compound Brightening Thousands of Homes.

How hard it is to see the dear ones gradually losing their hold on life and fading away.

No home, however guarded, but has some dear one for whom anxiety never ceases.

Father and mother breaking down under heavy cares, or a sister or a brother growing thin, pale, and weaker day by day.

Into these sad homes Paine's celery compound comes like a messenger of mercy. There is sure to be some near relative or friend who owes recovery from some debilitating sickness to Paine's celery compound. The family physician, no matter of what school, recommends it and tells of others who became vigorous by its use.

This is the usual story of the entrance of this remarkable blood purifier and nerve strengthener into so many homes in every city and village in the United States.

It restores healthy, nervous action of the heart; sends purer, richer blood through the intricate ventricles and chambers of this vital organ and equalizes its action by regulating the nervous system.

Paine's celery compound cures speedily and permanently all disorders due to impure blood and badly nourished nerves and nerve centres.

"I have been a sufferer from nervousness for years, and have used several remedies, none of which did me any good. This season I had a severe attack, and tried Paine's celery compound. One bottle gave me immediate relief. I used two bottles and am as well today as I ever was.

"My wife has also used the medicine with much relief. I have recommended it to several of my friends and am sure that they are satisfied with it."

Try it once and be convinced from personal experience.

Gold Dollars at Eighty Cents.

An announcement to sell gold dollars at eighty cents would not meet with a response unless backed by a reliable name. It is the name and confidence of the public that makes the success. This is exemplified by Humphrey's Specifics, which have stood the test for more than forty years, and are valued by those who use them far above gold dollars, and well they may be, for while gold is useful, it will not always buy health. Humphrey's Specifics, these golden Treasures, cannot be mentioned where even a few people are assembled without one or more standing ready to vouch for their true worth, and to unfold tales of almost miraculous cures. If you would enjoy and preserve good health, use Humphrey's Specifics. A Doctor's Book free by addressing the Humphrey Company, New York.

CREEDON IS ALL RIGHT.

No Reason Why he Should not Give Fitzsimmons a Hard Fight.

The story now going the rounds of the papers about Dan. Creedon's attack of muscular rheumatism and how he cured it in time to train for his contest with Fitzsimmons, which takes place in New Orleans, on Sept. 26th, has aroused no little discussion in the sporting circles.

Creedon's own version of it as told to a reporter of the St. Louis Chronicle, in the presence of his backer and manager Col. John D. Hopkins, was to the effect that he first took cold by going from the stage in a perspiration to a cold dressing room. The trouble progressed rapidly and when ordinary remedies did not give relief, physicians were called, but they also failed to hit upon the right treatment. By this time his muscles were swollen and his joints so stiff as to make him utterly useless.

It was now apparent that something out of the ordinary must be done or Creedon's days as a pugilist were numbered.

To make matters worse Creedon had a lucrative engagement to help train Jim Corbett for his fight with Mitchell, which he would have to give up.

Col. Hopkins at last discharged the physicians and took the case in his own hands. He prescribed Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which Creedon took with the best results, as is shown by the fact that a short time afterward he started for Jacksonville, Fla., to train Corbett. He withstood the change of climate and has had no return of the trouble.

That's the rheumatism story in a nutshell and anyone wishing to back Creedon in the coming contest need give the rheumatism no second thought.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have not only proved an infallible specific for muscular rheumatism, but some of the most noted pugilists and athletes have found in them a sure method of creating new blood and new tissue. These pills act directly on the nerve centres and hold the life forces at the highest ebb. The kidneys and liver are kept in a perfectly healthful condition and every function properly performed. All these constitute a reserve force upon which the athlete can draw at all times with the best results.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

The Democratic electors of the State of New York are requested to unite in sending three alternate delegates from each Assembly District to a State Convention, to be held at Saratoga Springs, on Tuesday Sept 25th, 1894 at 12 o'clock noon for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates to be voted for at the ensuing general election, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention

The delegates chosen to represent this district in the State convention are for the best and strongest candidates that can be found, for Democratic harmony and union, and for a party policy broad enough and fair enough to bring together and keep together all who call themselves Democrats.

Arkansas has arrayed itself squarely on the side of prohibition. At the recent election a proposition to license the sale of liquors throughout the State was defeated by a decisive majority, and fifty counties voted not to permit the sale of intoxicants within their limits for the next two years.

Mr. Platt is in favor of a fusion ticker in New York city if a Platt Republican heads it as a candidate for Mayor. This announcement of Mr. Platt's purpose to try and make the "reform" movement subservient to the ends of Republican partisanship ought to cool the ardor of such of the "reformers" as call themselves Democrats.

As the investigation by the State Lunacy Commission into alleged abuses in the management of the New York insane asylums proceeds, it becomes more and more apparent that the investigation is not for the purpose of disclosing the existence of evils with a view to their reformation, but for the purpose of creating a public sentiment favorable to transfer of the asylums to State control. Should the Commission succeed in its evident purpose, it would mean a doubling of the State tax for the care and support of the insane and would greatly increase the patronage and power of the Commission, and Goodwin Brown and his associates have a great itching for patronage and power.

Judge Gaynor, of Brooklyn, seems to grow in favor as a candidate for Governor. In Kings county, however, there are no objections to his nomination. Boss McLaughlin is too sore over his defeat of last year, to be enthusiastic in behalf of the man who contributed so much to his humiliation, and the Brooklyn Citizen, the organ of the McLaughlin Democracy, suggests that in view of Judge Gaynor's recent alliance with Republicanism it would be well to put him on probation before bestowing upon him the highest honor in the gift of the Democrats of the Empire State. Edward M. Shepard, the leader of the anti-McLaughlin Democrats in Kings county, is also disposed to frown on the Gaynor boom for two reasons: He looks upon Gaynor as his creation and does not like to see the creature become greater than the creator, and fears that if Gaynor is nominated, the machine which he has been setting up in Brooklyn will be rudely and summarily tumbled into the ditch and knocked into pieces.

REPUBLICAN APPORTIONMENT

From the Brooklyn Citizen

The promise in the Republican platform of this State, that the party will give the people a fair reapportionment is a trifle absurd in view of the action of the Republican party in the Constitutional Convention Indeed, if the party carries the State there will probably be no call for a reapportionment, since the Constitutional Convention's programme will probably also be carried. This gerrymander will, in the words of a Republican member of the Convention, prevent the Democrats from controlling the Legislature unless they carry the State by 120,000 majority, and in normal years will give the Republicans 32 Senators out of 50. If a Constitutional Convention, a body which is supposed to represent all that is best in the party, will give the people such a gerrymander, the party would be wiser to leave references to reapportionment out of its platform.

The Democratic Convention to choose delegates to represent this Assembly district in the State and Judiciary Conventions, which was held in the Assembly Rooms, to-day, was well attended and much interest was manifested in its proceedings, which were entirely harmonious.

The convention was called to order at 12 o'clock by E. Dikeman, chairman of the district committee, who nominated Ira L. Case for chairman.

On taking the chair Mr. Case made a short address, in which he spoke of the daily brightening prospects of Democratic success. His remarks were heartily cheered.

A ballot was ordered for three delegates to the State Convention. Sixty-seven votes were cast, all of them for John I. Bradley, Evi Shimer and Thomas Watts.

The delegates were authorized to appoint their own alternates.

The following resolution, offered by Hon. M. N. Kane, was adopted:

Resolved, That this convention commends the eminent fairness and ability displayed by the Hon. Edgar M. Cullen in the discharge of his duties as Justice of the Supreme Court, and by this method expresses the entire satisfaction of this community with his industrious and considerate conduct while presiding at the courts held in this county.

On motion of Hon Henry Bacon the secretaries were directed to cast the vote of the convention for W. F. O'Neill as delegate to the Judiciary Convention, to be hereafter called, and Mr. O'Neill was authorized to appoint his own alternate.

The convention then adjourned.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN COSHEN.

The New Furniture Store—Dates of the Vocal Society's Concerts, Out Again—A Hustling Candidate—Last Night's Fire—Funeral of Mrs. Smith—Unsafe Crossings.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

—Very extensive improvements are being made to the Merriam building, on West Main street, which has been leased by the C. E Crawford Furniture Company, of Middletown, and the company will have very handsome and well appointed store. Rodney Coleman has been engaged as clerk and will enter on his duties, Monday.

—The sale of seats for the Goshen Vocal Society's eighth season of concerts will soon begin and the chart will be opened in a few days at the store of Mr. C. E. Millspaugh. The dates selected for the society's concerts are Friday, Oct. 19th; Thursday, Dec. 27th; Monday, June 3d; Wednesday, June 5th; and Friday, June 7th. The success of last season has encouraged the society to arrange for a series of musical events which will, it is expected, surpass anything the organization has yet given.

—President Hock is around again after being confined to the house for a few days. He says it is too near election time for him to remain in the house long.

—Mr. W. H. Wyker, who aspires to the Democratic nomination for Member of Assembly, is making a lively hustle to win the prize, and if he does, he will see to it that the result of the election is not as it was last year. Mr. Wyker has always been willing to help Democratic candidates and has been an able and eloquent champion of Democratic principles and he and his friends feel that his services to the party are entitled to recognition and reward.

—Fire was discovered about 7 o'clock, last evening, in the Sinsabaugh house on Golden Hill avenue, occupied by Mr. Theo. R. Dunning and family. Mr. Dunning used part of the house as a shop in which to manufacture leather shoe laces, and it was in this part that the fire originated from some unknown cause. The damage done was not very heavy, for the firemen made the long run in very quick time and used good judgment in subduing the flames, so that the house was not flooded with water. Mr. Dunning was insured with E. E. Conkling, of Middletown.

—The funeral of Mrs. Geo. H. Smith will be held at the M. E. Church, to-morrow, at 2 p. m. Interment at the Webb Cemetery, in this village.

—The heavy rains raised the water in the reservoir eighteen inches and we now have a good supply.

—The other evening a gentleman was crossing the Erie track at West Main street, when his foot caught between the rail and the crossing planks. He had to take off his boot before he could extricate his foot. What the result would have been had a train happened to come along, is easy to guess Last evening, Wm. Donnelly's horse got its foot caught in the same way on the Greenwich street crossing and was only just released when a train came along. It would be well for the Erie to look after its crossings and see that the planks are properly laid, and not have such a wide opening at the rails.

The Next Vocal Society Entertainment—Other Local and Personal Notes—Concerning Skeletons and Their Closets

(From a Special Correspondent)

—The Vocal Society's first entertainment for the season of 1894-95 will be given on the evening of Friday, Oct 19th. Mr. George Riddle will read Victor Hugo's drama of Lucretia Borgia, with an orchestral accompaniment. All who heard Mr. Riddle read the Midsummer Night's Dream, on the occasion of his last visit, will be anxious to hear him again. The dates for the other entertainments are: Thursday, Dec. 27th; Monday, June 3rd, Wednesday, June 5th, and Friday, June 7th.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fenny Wallace and family, are the guests of Mrs. Hannah Wallace, at her home in this village.

—It was decided at the regular rehearsal of the Vocal Society, last evening, to hold the annual banquet at Music Hall, during the early part of November.

—Master Daniel Bacon left Goshen, on Tuesday, for Newburgh, where he will attend school during the ensuing year.

—Mrs. Augustus Ireland and daughter have returned from Fultonville, where they have been spending several weeks.

—The Misses Vail have returned from Twilight Park, where they have been the guests of the Misses Hosford.

—The pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Drayton, that have been recently published in some of the newspapers, must be no small part of their punishment for airing their matrimonial grievances before the public. What a difference there is in people's management of their family skeletons. Some bring them out and keep them in exhibition for the delectation of all whom they may or may not concern, while others will at least try to shut them up where they belong—in the cupboard. Let no man flatter himself, however, that there is any closet so strong that it will secrete a skeleton for very long. Let him guard the key never so carefully, some day he will be sure to drop it when along will come Mrs. Fatima and discover it. It may or may not be a consolation to him to know that, ever since the days of Bluebeard, curiosity has often brought its own punishment, for the one who goes in search of a secret often unearths something that causes him unhappiness. A skeleton is a ghastly object, but to some the rattling of its bones is as the sweetest music. There was never anything truer written than "there is nothing hidden that shall not be revealed," and this is as true of the trifles of life as well as of its weightier affairs. There is always a certain fatality about trying to keep anything to yourself. That which you would whisper in the seclusion of your own house is pretty apt to be shouted on the house top. Watch how, if you are trying to keep the conversation from some unpleasant or dangerous subject, it is as sure to turn toward it as is the needle to the pole. If there is one thing that you wish particularly to keep from any member of your family, does not the first person he meets enlighten him concerning it? As long as there are tongues in the world they will wag, and as long as they wag secrets will leak out.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d. N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892

These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

MY PEARLS.

I have a string of pearls
Untarnished, perfect and fair—
Eight—but the angels came one day
And I placed one in their care.

Seven are left me, priceless gems,
Perfect as any you'll see,
And only our Heavenly Father knows
How precious they are to me.

Three are large ones, fully grown,
Then there's an odd one there,
It shines between with mischievous gleam,
Then three "like steps in a stair."
—Aunt Louisa in Minneapolis Housekeeper.

A DESPERADO.

A company of gentlemen sat in the office of the Hotel Palomares in Pomona the other evening waiting for a late train to Los Angeles. Each one of the party knew every one else, cigars were freely passed around, and all were enjoying a talk about early experiences on the frontier, and especially in southern California, before railroads were built in this region. The best story of the evening was told by Colonel John Williamson, one of the most important orange growers in southern California.

"From 1873 until 1878," he said, "I was engaged by a Chicago lumber company to travel through the country from Denver to St. Louis to look up openings for lumber yards. It was my business to visit new towns and settlements, and when I found men of capital in them to induce them to go into the lumber business and buy of the Chicago concern. At that time Ogalalla, on the Union Pacific railroad, was famous throughout the country as the roughest place in the west. Then Dodge City, Kan., came into prominence for its cowboy episodes and the rough, tough and desperate character of a large portion of its residents. I passed a night in Dodge City in October, 1876, and I assure you that I came quickly to the conclusion that life in any other town would be tame and without excitement in comparison with the pleasures that place could afford.

"On one side of the railroad track stood a big barnlike building called the Americo-Mexican hotel, and on the other a row of 20 or 30 one story frame houses, almost every one of which was a barroom, with a gambling house attached. Over the doors hung such signs as 'Cowboys' Retreat,' 'The Divan' and 'The Frontiersman's Delight.' Behind the town, on top of the hill, was the city graveyard. An immense cross stood at the top of the hill and served as a landmark for travelers for miles and miles across the barren prairies. That graveyard was the pride of every man who lived in Dodge City. The inhabitants watched it grow and pointed with pleasure to the fact that there was hardly a man taking his final rest there who had not come to his death by violence.

"It was toward afternoon when I halted my horse in front of the Americo-Mexican hotel after a 40 mile ride. Heavily armed men stood about in groups. The looks thrown at me were far from reassuring, but I pretended not to see them and hastened into the hotel. Hardly had I taken my seat in the dining room when four men, evidently forming a delegation, approached me. They demanded to know what brought me to Dodge City in a way which left me no alternative but to answer. My answers seemed satisfactory, and one of them informed me the reason of their curiosity. They had some idea that I was a deputy sheriff and frankly told me that if I had been I should have been escorted out of town, as no government officers were wanted about Dodge City that night. They further informed me that there was to be one of the prettiest lynching bees in town that night that had ever taken place.

"Three men had come to Dodge City 10 weeks before and had taken the town by storm. They had made their headquarters at a tavern almost opposite the hotel and had levied a tax on every one who entered. Anybody who objected to paying or standing treat was beaten, and when resistance was shown pistols were used. Ten men had received death wounds from these three men, and the town had determined to set an example to all such characters by hanging the three without ceremony. It was not easy, however, to accomplish this, as the men were intrenched in the barroom and refused to come out or allow any one to enter. It had been determined to dislodge them that night in spite of all resistance, and I was invited to take part in the affair. The men were named Hank Martin, Jack Willis and Wat Simmons and were desperate outlaws, with large sums upon their heads.

"Just at dark the citizens of Dodge City prepared for battle. The attacking parties were divided into two forces. One approached the point of attack from the rear, while the larger number marched up to the front. All the citizens wore handkerchiefs over their faces. I was in the main body of attackers, or rather behind it. We were brought to a sudden halt by a rifle shot from one of the windows of the besieged house, and one of our leaders fell. Various means were tried to dislodge the three men, but to no purpose. Every time the slightest advance was made their rifles rang out, and some one on our side dropped. At last a small man slipped up in the shadow of the adjacent building and threw a lighted can of kerosene under the building. Soon it began to burn. At last it was enveloped in flames, and the three men were obliged to rush for their lives. They were half blinded by the heat and smoke of the burning building, so they were quickly captured.

"Then all the citizens of Dodge City, not excepting the women and children, formed in line and marched down to the cattle pens, where an old tree stood that had served several times as a gallows. A rope had been brought along, and it was quickly thrown over a branch, and everything was ready for the hanging. It was at first intended to dispose of the three men at the same time, but as there was room for only two at a time, Jack Willis was the first to be strung up. His end was hastened by a dozen bullets, which were fired into the body while it was still writhing. Wat Simmons was then disposed of.

"Next came the turn of Hank Martin, and all held their breath when the boldest desperado known on the plains in those days was brought out. Just as the big, powerful fellow was led under the tree he made a sign that he wanted to say something. The gag was removed from Martin's mouth, and he said:

"'If you will take this rope from round my neck and slightly loosen these bonds, I will tell you men something that will interest you all.'

"There seemed no danger, with so many on guard, so his request was complied with. When his fetters were loosened, he rose, stretched himself and began his speech:

"'You are a set of villains,' he yelled, 'and you can all go to hell!'

"He knocked down the two men nearest to him and made a dash for the sagebrush on the open prairie. All the horses were left outside the barroom when the desperadoes were captured. A few men dashed into the sage after Martin, which made it impossible for the men under the tree to use their guns, lest they hit some of the pursuers. After an hour's useless chase the hunt was given up for the night.

"At daylight the next morning a ranchman rode into Dodge City and electrified the town by saying he had seen Martin near Fort Leary, 16 miles below. He said he had just finished his breakfast when a hatless man, whom he recognized as Martin, came in and demanded shelter. The ranchman suspected something was wrong from the man's manner and at once started for Dodge City and gave the alarm. Thirty men immediately saddled their horses and started in pursuit of the man they had avowed to hang. As they approached the hut a man appeared in the door with a winchester rifle in his hand. Without a word he opened fire on the advancing party. Two men dropped from their saddles, and as the rest of the party put spurs to their horses and dashed toward the hut Martin, who had done the shooting, rushed down the hill and plunged into the Fox river. There had been heavy rains, and the river was a torrent, which made it seem impossible that a man could reach the other side alive. All the horsemen drew up along the bank and waited in readiness to shoot Martin should he by any chance get across. They waited half an hour, and as there was no sight of him they returned to Dodge City. That afternoon the other two desperadoes were buried in what is known as 'Murderers' row,' and beside the graves was placed a board, 'To the memory of Hank Martin, drowned in the Fox river while escaping capture.'

"Two years after leaving Dodge City I chanced to be in a little Texas town that I don't want to mention here. A man passed me on the street one day whose face was strikingly familiar. I turned to my companion and asked who it was.

"'That,' said he, 'is Henry Martin, one of our most respected citizens.'

"Suddenly the scene of the lynching at Dodge City came back to me, and I knew that the last time I had seen that man he was standing under a tree with a rope around his neck. I told my friend the story, and he evidently doubted my sanity, if not my veracity. He told me that Martin came to the town early in 1879, when it was first started. He invested money in town lots and made a fortune. He was a promoter of schools and churches and was talked of for the next mayor. That night I was at my hotel when a tall man, with a slouched hat, walked in. He looked round and then came straight to me.

"'Are you the man,' he said, 'who has been telling a yarn about Hank Martin being lynched?'

"I acknowledged that I was.

"'Well,' he replied, 'Henry told me to tell you that he would shoot you on sight if you were in town tomorrow.'

"Two hours later I was taking a night ride across the prairies."—Kansas City Times.

Extraordinary Longevity In Chile.

The last census of Chile furnishes some interesting statistics relative to longevity of certain representatives of the human race, who live in that far away corner of "Latin" or "Spanish" America. According to the figures in question, in the 23 provinces of Chile the enumerators found 211 men and 273 women who had passed the century milestone. One man, Rafael Munoz of Colchaqua, was returned as being 150 years of age. The oldest woman was 138. Of the other "old timers" they found one man 135 and two women 132, one man 130, one over 127, one woman 125 and three men and four women 123, one man 122 and three women 121; 20 women and eight men gave in their ages as 120, and two women acknowledged to being past 119; five women and three men were at the 118 mark. Of all the others over 100, 240 were women and 195 were men. The most remarkable exhibit in the whole array is the one which shows that 53 women and 38 men gave in their ages as 110.—St. Louis Republic.

Diamonds In the Meteors.

Professor Berthelot has pointed out that in the writings of Avicenna there is mention of a metallic aerolite which fell in Djorjan, in central Asia, in the eleventh century which could neither be broken nor worked up into arms or tools. One of the blocks of native iron found at Ovijak, in Greenland, in 1870, is so hard that it can neither be scratched nor cut, and Professor Nordenskjold suggests that this may be due to the presence of black diamonds disseminated through the iron.

A Quiet Rubber.

Old Black Bass—Do you see that little frog hanging there by a string?

Young Black Bass—Yes, mother.

Old Black Bass—Well, don't bite at it, child. That is merely a rubber frog and very unpalatable. I have observed them before. This one, I think, came from a Boston fishing tackle store, and presumably there is a Bostonian holding the split bamboo, which you can easily distinguish by an upward glance. Here comes a nice fat shiner for you, unencumbered by any patent angling gewgaws. There now; swim off to play.—Boston Courier.

They All Do It.

Ahasuerus Hubbard had an appointment at his office at 10 o'clock, but he awoke early, and so it happened that at 8:30 he had finished his breakfast and read his morning paper. He went out onto the doorstep with his hat on and having nothing to do walked leisurely over toward the cable line. It was a 12 minute ride to the office. He had therefore over an hour and a quarter to spare. A crowded cable car came along, the passengers hanging onto the seat handles and wedged together on the platforms. Just behind it was another train, and behind that still another, almost empty. The first car did not slacken speed at the crossing where Ahasuerus stood.

And then Ahasuerus Jones, with 75 minutes' time at his disposal and a chance to ride down town in comfort a few seconds later, made a rush for the crowded train, missed his footing, hurt his ankle and was finally dragged on board, bruised and breathless.

When he he got to his office, he waited an hour in idleness.

Will some psychologist kindly ascertain and describe the cerebral action which impels Ahasuerus and several thousand other esteemed citizens to do this sort of thing every day in the year?—Chicago Record.

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

Hunting for Mushrooms—An Anti-Rheumatic Kite—A $400 Kiss—A Very Strange Feature of Yesterday's Accident at Grace Church—Mrs. Bloomer and Her Bloomers.

Since the recent rain, many Middletowners who know a mushroom when they see it have roamed over the pastures in the vicinity of this city in quest of the toothsome fungus. They are all agreed that mushroons are scarce, this fall, though an old pasture is sometimes come upon in which there is a fine crop and bags and baskets are filled without difficulty.

A New Hampshire man, ex State Senator Flaxtoben, of Concord, has hit upon an entirely new and original device for warding off all danger of rheumatism. He has a very large kite, strong enough to support considerable weight, which he keeps flying whenever there is wind enough. On the string of this kite he runs up the sheets and pillow cases of his bed, and airs them a quarter of a mile from the earth, where he says all the germs of rheumatism are blown out of them. Not very scientific nor very sensible, but the kite-flyer imagines that he is blowing rheumatism away from him, and it answers the same purpose as the horse chestnuts some people carry in their pockets, and the electric rings that others wear to make themselves rheumatism proof.

A Rochester jury has fixed the commercial value of a kiss, snatched from a comely young women against her will, at $400.

It is said that the plank which broke in Grace Church, yesterday afternoon, when Theodore Coleman stepped upon it, had been in use ever since the work in the church began and only a short time before had sustained the weight of two men. It is strange, indeed, that after such a test of its strength the plank should have snapped into three pieces under the weight of a single man. The incident is strange enough to make those who incline to fatalism believe that it was fated that poor Coleman was to get a fall in the church, and that the plank would have borne any weight till he set foot upon it, when, in accordance with the decrees of inexorable fate, it went to smash. A more reasonable view is, however, that the plank's limit of tensile strength had been reached while the men were standing on it and that when Coleman stepped upon it, the vibration was sufficient to cause the fibres, strained beyond their elastic limit, to give away.

Mrs. Amelia Bloomer, after whom the "Bloomer costume" was named, still lives, at the age of seventy-six, with her husband, in Council Bluffs, Ia. She began to wear trousers in 1851. She then lived in Seneca Falls, where she published a temperance and woman's rights paper, called The Lily. A Mrs. Miller, who visited Seneca Falls, appeared in a bifurcated dress, which so impressed Mrs. Bloomer with its convenience and hygienic advantages that she adopted it in a modified form, published a description of it in her paper and urged its general use both in her paper and from the lecture platform. She accomplished but little, however. The new style of dress was too hideous and too great a divergence from the traditions of woman's garb to be received with favor, and though it was adopted by women of advanced ideas here and there, most of them abandoned it after a year or two, and only a very few continued to wear the trousers and abbreviated skirts. Mrs. Bloomer has, however, lived to see the bicycling craze accomplish what the hygienic ideas of herself and her co-laborers for woman's welfare failed to accomplish, and may be pardoned a feeling of contempt for her sex, who for the sake of the wheeling craze have taken a step in dress reform that they could not be induced to take for the conservation of the health of themselves and their posterity.

Livery Rigs in Collision.

A collision between two of Liveryman Murphy's rigs, which were carrying passengers to and from the picnic at Maennerchor Park, last night, occurred at the corner of Wisner and Wickham avenues. The pole of a three-seated carryall was broken and the dashboard and one wheel of a light surrey was badly damaged. None of the passengers were hurt.

A Children's Picnic at Midway.

Miss Catherine Tator is entertaining about twenty-five of her young schoolmates at Midway Park, to-day. The little folks boarded a car at the Liberty street school house, and were as happy a party as ever picnicked at Midway. The children were in charge of Mrs. Susie Tator and Mrs. W. N. Knapp.

ARRESTED A BICYCLE.

Officer Skelton, Attempting to Arrest a Violator of the Bicycle Ordinance, Gets a Wheel but Not the Wheelman.

Fred Massey, the seventeen-year-old son of Conductor Ed. Massey, and several companions, started, last night, to ride to Bloomingburgh on their bicycles. Officer Skelton, whom they passed on North street, noticed that Massey was riding without lamp, bell or brake, and called to him to stop. The officer claims that the boy refused to stop and made an insulting remark as he wheeled on.

The officer was on the lookout when the party returned about 12 o'clock, and he jumped out into the road and grabbed the "bike." The boy fell off, and it is claimed was badly bruised on the arm.

Officer Skelton got the bicycle but not the boy, and the wheel is held at Police Court, the police intending to nab the boy when he comes to claim it.

This is the first case which has come up for violation of the ordinance prohibiting riding a bicycle at night without a lamp, and its adjudication is awaited with some interest, for incidentally the question will come up, whether in making an arrest for violation of the ordinance an officer has the right to tumble a rider in the dirt and subject him to physical harm.

THE ACQUITTAL OF OSTERHOUT.

Judge Fursman Directs the Jury to Find a Verdict of Not Guilty.

Although, as stated in last night's ARGUS, Hiram Osterhout was acquitted of the charge of murdering Jacob Moore, at Bushville, there is still an indictment against him for the murder of Jane Stack.

Judge Fursman, on the motion of Judge Bush, attorney for Osterhout, directed the jury to acquit Osterhout, and when the District Attorney reminded him of the other indictment he said: "I'll let him go on his own recognizance."

HOW THEY GOT SQUARE.

Dagos Meet a Reduction of Wages in a Novel Manner.

A young man who is a student at Cornell University has written a letter to his father in which he described the manner in which a gang of Italian coal heavers met a reduction of ten cents a day in their wages.

He says when the reduction was announced there was great commotion among the dagos and everybody expected to see a strike and possibly a riot, as the men were seen to gather in groups and engage in excited conversation.

That night, however, the men got together and a number of them were provided with cold chisels and hammers and every man of them had his shovel with him.

First one and then another came forward and submitted his shovel to the men with hammers and chisels, who proceeded to cut an inch off the blade of each shovel, thus reducing its capacity to about the extent of the reduction in wages.

The employers of the men saw the point of the joke and said never a word, and the dagos contrive to handle coal with short shovels on short wages.

The County Fair.

The Register says the attendance at the fair on Thursday was far above the most liberal estimates, the single admissions on that day being 10,630, besides 1,509 in carriages, which, with members, officers, attendants and children would bring the total attendance to over 14,000.

Yesterday was children's day, and while the attendance was nearly as large as on Thursday, the gate receipts were considerably less, as the school children were admitted free.

A Goshen Man's Name Dragged Into the Sanford Divorce Case.

The name of Dean Tuttle, of Goshen, N. Y., was lugged into the Sanford divorce case, yesterday. Mrs. Sanford, who is trying to have the divorce procured by her husband, Walter S. Sanford, manager of Niblo's Theatre, set aside on the ground of collusion, asserted that there was a conspiracy on the part of her husband, Tuttle and others to prove her unfaithful.

A House Destroyed by Fire.

The tenant house of Wm. Wilcox, near Pine Island, was destroyed by fire, Wednesday, about midnight. It was occupied by Rasmus and Peter Hanson, who barely escaped with their lives, losing all their household goods, on which there was no insurance. Mr. Wilcox's loss is partially covered by insurance. Nothing is known as to the origin of the fire.

—In the case of Abram Middaugh against the O. & W. to recover $5,000 damages for the death of his son, who was killed at Hurleyville in October, 1893, while driving across the tracks, which was tried at Monticello, this week, the jury rendered a verdict of $2,000 damages. The case turned upon whether the bell was rung as the train approached the crossing. The engineer and fireman swore that it was, but a number of witnesses swore that they did not hear it, and the jury gave the plaintiff the benefit of the doubt thus created.

The Turn Verein will be a good thing for Middletown's young people. Practically it is what we call in English a gymnasium.

The Thrall Hospital Excursion.

The train will leave Wickham avenue at 7:10 a. m., and Main street two minutes later. The fare for the round trip is only one dollar.

The New Rifle Range Leased.

Captain McIntyre, yesterday, signed a lease for the 24th Separate Company's rifle range, on the Van Ness farm, about one and one-half miles beyond Midway Park, on the line of the electric road. Out-door practice will commence as soon as the marker's pits are built and the targets placed in position.

A Grand Feature

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is that while it purifies the blood and sends it coursing through the veins full of richness and health, it also imparts new life and vigor to every function of the body. Hence the expression so often heard: "Hood's Sarsaparilla made a new person of me." It overcomes that tired feeling so common now.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, always reliable and beneficial.

FACE LIKE A BURN

Bloody Water Oozed Out Constantly. Sufferings were Terrible. No Peace Day or Night from Itching and Burning. Doctors Failed. Cured by CUTICURA.

My child's disease, which was the worst kind of Eczema, started on one cheek like a ringworm. It spread and itched so the poor little fellow had no peace night or day. Then it started on the other cheek and chin, until all were raw as a piece of beefsteak, like a burn where you would rub off the skin, and bloody water oozed out constantly. His sufferings were terrible. I tied his hands that he would not scratch, then he would rub his poor little cheeks on his shoulders to relieve the intense itching. I had as good a doctor as was in Philadelphia, but he failed to relieve him. I read of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and at once purchased them. Strange to say, that very night he rested without scratching his face, and from that on he improved and soon was entirely cured. I would like anyone suffering from this terrible disease to see my boy now; his complexion is as clear and smooth as can be. This is an unsolicited testimonial, and every word is true. I thank God for my child's recovery, and I thank the manufacturer of CUTICURA.
